

ABOUT US

At a meeting of the Association of Professors of Gynecology and Obstetrics (APGO) in 1977, eighteen department chairs and their administrators met to develop an organization for the exchange of ideas among obstetrics and gynecology administrators. Thus, AMGO began and continues to provide an educational, collegial and social network for administrators of Obstetrics and Gynecology to improve academic and clinical administration. The Association of Managers of Gynecology and Obstetrics, Inc., (AMGO), promotes interaction and collaboration among managers of departments of obstetrics and gynecology in medical schools throughout North America.

GOALS

- ✦ To promote the best practices in professional management,
- ✦ To provide a forum for discussion of management topics,
- ✦ To provide a mechanism for exchange of information, and
- ✦ To interact with other organizations in accomplishing these goals

BENEFITS OF MEMBERSHIP

Meetings: The annual AMGO conference is an excellent opportunity to network with your peers and acquire tools and techniques you can apply to your workplace. The topics and speakers cover a multitude of issues and problems that academic administrators face on a daily basis. The conference offers learning opportunities for both seasoned and new administrators to Obstetrics and Gynecology. A variety of topics are presented:

- Professional fee reimbursement
- Practice management solutions
- Faculty compensation and incentive programs
- Human resource management and leadership training
- Automated systems for financial and business operations
- Regulatory and legislative issues

Networking: The annual conference provides important and enjoyable opportunities to exchange information and informally discuss problems and topics of mutual interest to members.

AMGOnet: Allows members to connect with professional colleagues across the country. AMGOnet is an email listserv forum for members to exchange ideas, to ask questions, and obtain information. There is a wealth of knowledge across the country that is gained and shared by the AMGO membership.
